ITALY MAY SPUR HITLER TO RENEW DEMANDS

Presence in Rome on "Empire Day" Expected to Whet Der Fuehrer's Desire

TO SEE GREAT SHOW

(This is the third of a series of four articles dealing with preparations for Adolf Hitler's visit to Italy.)

By Frank Gervasi
L. N. S. Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1938)

ROME, Apr. 20—(INS)—A crafty foreign diplomat, commenting on the elaborate preparations underway to give Adolf Hitler a rousing welcome when he comes to Italy next month, remarked:

"When Der Fuehrer sees this show, he'll go back and yell like hell for colonies—and maybe do something about it too."

For the keynote of Italian preparations to welcome the guest from Berlin can be summed up in the phrase repeated almost daily now in the nation's newspapers—IMPERIAL MAGNIFICENCE.

The new Italian Empire, Africa, Libya, Naval and military strength. The Mediterranean. Strings of camels, white-robed natives, Palms, Desert sands. The glory that was ancient Rome and the grandeur that is the Rome of Mussolini. These are the ingredients that will strike Hitler in the eye as the pageantry attending his visit unfolds before him.

There are as yet unconfirmable reports from Tripoli that preparations are being made down there to welcome Hitler in Libya. If this is true it may be that in addition to the pomp and display of the celebrations in Rome, Naples and Florence, Mussolini plans for his honored guest a surprise visit to Tripoli so that Hitler might witness how Italy holds the balance of military power in northern Africa.

Hitler's visit will coincide with at least one of two important dates in Italian history. The first is May 5, second anniversary of Field Marshal Badoglio's triumphant entry into Addis Ababa. The second is May ninth, second anniversary of Il Duce's proclamation of the creation of the Italian Empire.

It is virtually certain Hitler will be in Rome on "Empire Day," and very likely that he will be here to witness the celebrations for the second anniversary of the fall of Addis Ababa. Strangely enough although the hour of his arrival, 8:30 p. m., has been established, the day of his coming has been announced only as "during the first fortnight in May." International News Service was informed Hitler will arrive the night of May 3rd, but this could not be confirmed.

In the banners which will greet him, in the names of the streets through which he will pass—one is called "Viale Africa"—Hitler will have repeated continually the theme of "Empire."

He will see pylons on which will be inscribed the glorious dates of battles fought for the creation of Italy's colonial empire. He will read names like "Amba Aradam," "Axum" and "Amba Alagi."

Il Duce has openly asserted his sympathy for Hitler's pleas for colonies and diplomatic observers are asking themselves if out of Der Fuehrer's visit there may not come a new Hitler bid, with substantial political support from Mussolini, for partial restoration of German colonial possessions.

Obvious scope of the Hitler junket, aside from the diplomatic necessity of returning in kind the warm welcome extended by Berlin to Il Duce, is full affirmation of the reality, in the eyes of the world, of the Rome-Berlin axis. This assumes particular importance in view of recent events in Austria. Even Italian public opinion was at least temporarily shocked by Hitler's sudden acquisition of Austria. Abroad, Hitler's action was interpreted as a defeat for Il Duce.

Mussolini's position is that he saved

MR. EARLE'S REVOLUTION

(Oil City Derrick, April 16, 1938)

In a speech delivered in New Castle last Wednesday night Gov. Earle stated that it was his belief that the election of a Republican President and congress now would produce a revolution in the United States in less than six months.

This might be set down as political clap-trap if it did not come from the executive of the great state of Pennsylvania and the man who is now running for the United States senate with the backing of the Roosevelt administration. Therefore it demands a reply.

With the exception of two Cleveland and two Wilson administrations covering a total of 16 years, policies of the Republican party guided the destinies of the United States from 1860 to 1932, a period covering almost three-quarters of a century. Those were the golden years of American history—the years which covered the development of the west, gave us one-third of the world's railroad mileage and half of its steel production—the era which produced Edisons, Westinghouses, Fords, Rockefellers, Mellons and Carnegies, all of them starting from poverty.

Those were years of almost universal industrial peace. Capital and labor worked hand in hand. There was little or no unemployment except during occasional depressions from which the country quickly recovered. That was the era which made the United States the industrial mistress of the world. It was also the era of sound money, low taxes, credit built on the gold standard and no national debt except that contracted in time of war and reduced substantially in time of peace.

Why should there be a revolution because of a return to those conditions? But suppose there were the danger of revolution of which Gov. Earle speaks. Who was it that has sown its seeds? Who is responsible for the eminence of John L. Lewis? Who was it sanctioned the sit-down strikes of last year? Who was it forced the steel and automobile industries to surrender to the C. I. O.? Who was it encouraged communists to take possession of the senate chamber in Harrisburg and turn one of our great law-making branches into bedlam? Who was it closed the plants in Johnstown in face of a C. I. O. threat to march 40,000 miners into that town and assume mastery of the city's chief industry? Who gave the country the Wagner act?

The easiest way to produce revolutions is to create the forces which generate them. Let us ask Mr. Earle how much the New Deal has done to create these forces.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1938, by The Baltimore Sun)

Coalition Suggestions

Senators as must be renominated this year, clearly precludes anything approaching a unified party in the 1940 campaign.

THERE WILL be no dissent as to that. The differences between the New Deal and the anti-New Deal Democrats are much too basic to permit of any real reconciliation—and the situation has reached a stage where no one thinks it possible the feat of 1936, by which a vast number of Democrats were held in line for the head of the ticket, of whom they thoroughly disapproved and distrusted, can be repeated. It was the absence of an acceptable alternative plus the power of the party name that made that possible two years ago. Subsequent developments make it plain it can't be done again.

REALIZATION of this is bound to strengthen the coalition idea, the logic of which becomes clearer all the time. Again to permit the anti-New Dealers to be divided, as in 1936, by the outworn and wholly ridiculous party labels seems too utterly stupid to contemplate seriously. If the New Dealers again dominate the Democratic National Convention, some form of 1940 cooperative action between Republicans and the anti-New Deal Democrats is imperative. Under such circumstances, to stay apart is to Rehoboth Beach, Del., April 20—Delaware had a child bride problem on its hands today following the disclosure that 12-year-old Elmira Walls was married to Samuel McChesney, 27, a laborer, of nearby Lewes.

The Rev. John Humphreys, who performed the ceremony in the parsonage of Westminster Presbyterian Church, here, said the marriage license gave the girl's age as 16, but authorities claimed she will not be 13 until April 30th.

Plunges Off Bridge

Philadelphia, April 20—(INS)—Clad only in pajamas and a bathrobe, Algonon R. Clapp, 42, socially prominent Philadelphia attorney, was killed early today when his high-powered coupe plunged off the City Line Bridge over the Schuylkill river.

Jumping an eight-inch curb, the car ripped off 40 feet of iron railing, turned over several times and dropped 60 feet to the tracks of the Reading Railroad. Members of his family said he left his home in suburban Bryn Mawr a short time before the crash "just to take a ride."

Clapp first gained prominence as attorney for the Registration Commission here and later served as counsel for the U. S. Senate Committee which investigated the right of William S. Vare, one-time political boss of Philadelphia, to a seat in the Senate.

GOVERNOR EARLE SPEAKS AT DOYLESTOWN MEETING

418 Democrats Pay $5 Per Plate for Jeffersonian Dinner

MANY POCKETS PICKED

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 20—Four hundred eighteen persons, at $5 a plate, attended the Jeffersonian Dinner sponsored by the Bucks County Veteran Democratic Committee in the Armory last night. At this time Governor Earle and other Democratic candidates were the guests of honor. Dr. John A. Flood of New Hope, Democratic chairman, announced he was 100% behind the Earle-Jones ticket and assured the listeners that he would get every district in Bucks County for them at the primaries. Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, candidate for Democratic gubernatorial nomination, who accepted an invitation some time ago was delayed in Pittsburgh in a series of speaking engagements and could not get here.

Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy, also a candidate for governor was an invited guest and could not be present. Everything went off as scheduled according to the presiding officer, with one exception. On the way out after the dinner, a number of guests had their pockets picked, including Webster Grim, Doylestown, Margiotti Democrat, who had his wallet containing $20 in cash and some checks, identification cards, driver's license, and lodge cards stolen. Five others also were robbed.

Pennsylvania's first lady, Mrs. Earle accompanied the Governor with his party, Charles Alvin Jones, candidate to succeed Earle, Dr. Leo C. Mundy, candidate for Lieutenant Governor and Congressman Oliver W. Frey, Allentown, seeking another term in the Bucks-Lehigh district.

The Governor's party was late arriving in town and an official reception was cancelled.

The New Deal Governor declared last night in his speech that the government must provide money now and in the future for the army of unemployed who can't take care of themselves because machines have displaced them. Governor Earle said the workers of the world are divided into two classes, the farmers and the men who operate machines and the "great mass of persons who cannot obtain employment because of machines."

The Governor advocated the system of taxation by which profits of the machines would be distributed to those whose jobs the machines have taken. Governor Earle did not hesitate when he made known that he is proud as Governor, particularly proud of his labor records, social security, state building program and his safety campaign. He particularly lauded the Pennsylvania State Motor Police as the greatest reorganization in the world today.

Earle promised Bucks County Democrats that he would uphold the hand of President Roosevelt in Washington. Charles Alvin Jones, on his first visit to Bucks County, complained of criticism of the State Committee rule under which he was endorsed, Congressman Frey and Dr. Mundy made a plea for harmony.

The Governor withheld further comment on the charges of Mayor Wilson, of Philadelphia, made last Monday night at Williamsport, when he suggested he resign immediately, but indicated he would have something to say about it today.

Mrs. Esther Vasey and children Taylor and Evelyn, Camden, N. J., spent Saturday and Sunday with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fenton, Hayes street.

SCOUTS EAGER TO HAVE 'MBS' SHOOT IN BUCKS COUNTY

A Number of Service Clubs Make Contributions To Fund for Games

CONDUCTED BY COUNCIL

"Memory Trail" at Buccoo Camps To Be Dedicated July 17th

DOYLESTOWN, April 20—Boys throughout Bucks County have been asking for the "marble shoots." From the action of the Scouting Council Executive Board last evening, they will be conducted if the service clubs throughout the county will provide the funds. The men in scouting are willing to do the work to conduct the "shoots," the latter part of May, and the early part of June. Already, the Langhorne Lions Club, Perkasie Rotary Club, Morrisville Rotary Club, and Newtown Exchange Club have made contributions to the marble shoot fund.

Frank B. Fabian, Newtown, vice-chairman of the Delaware Valley district, was presented to the board by President Dr. A. J. Strathie. Complimentary remarks were made by Arthur M. Eastburn about the council meeting. Expressions of appreciation are being sent to all the organizations that co-operated in the recent scouting day at Morrisville. Recommended by Past-President C. Wilson Roberts and District Commissioner Herbert A. Pettit, was the plan to have the 1939 council meeting on April 10th and the 1939 Scouting Day on May 6th.

It has been decided from the suggestions of Paul R. Sine, Perkasie, that the floats in the annual parade are to participate in a cup contest. District Board reports were given by Walter W. Pitzkonka, Paul R. Sine, Frank B. Fabian and Scout Executive William F. Livermore.

Walter W. Pitzkonka announced the dedication of "Memory Trail" at Buccoo Camps will take place on Sunday, July 17th, at 3 p. m. It is being suggested that the sum of money made available for a memorial at Buccoo Camps in memory of the late Henry Palmer should be used to improve the Robin Hood Glen outdoor auditorium area. THE HOUSEHOLD BUDGET

Authorities on home affairs tell us we must budget the family. We all politely applaud and agree. But can we make a budget to which all members of the family will assent? After making it, can we adhere to it, when the sports invite us to join their junks and forget the budget?

It is one thing to fix a reasonable expenditure, and another thing not to exceed that figure. In many families, the family budget is "laid on the table" much of the time, to use the legislative phrase.

Those little habits, those petty vices, those favorite extravagances, what about them? How budget them? Many a man is willing to economize on his wife's hats. Many a lady will consent to curb the husband's smokes. The home budget plan will not go far, unless every member will take his share of the stinting.

Some people are governed by the amount of money in their purses at any time. As long as there is anything there, they feel rich, and spend accordingly. If they are half through the month, and the money is only one-third gone, it never occurs to them to save the balance, or hold it in reserve for some greater need.

These are the folks who need a budget badly. They very frequently make one, and forget it with one speed.

To live up to a budget, the husband must often pass over the fact that the chicken and the appetizing roast, so content herself with the humble soupbone or the modest stew. But out of little economies comfort and fortune grow. If you want education for your children or a better home, you will have to learn to look at things without buying them.

EARN YOUR THRILLS

Some years ago when the use of the automobile became general, writers of the sensationalist foreboding type frequently predicted that future generations might entirely lose the use of the legs, just as fishes that live in caverns might have lost the use of their eyes. The possibility seems no longer a matter of concern.

But unquestionably the general use of the automobile and extension of the good roads system is depriving American people of the lure of adventure and the thrill of sighting the blue once more as the result of good, hard exercise to attain these. A writer in Nature Magazine warns that making points of interest accessible has been carried too far.

There is a compensation in obtaining a glimpse of a waterfall or a view from a mountain top at cost of a long trudge through an unbroken wilderness or several hours of difficult climbing that can not be experienced if one arrives by a smooth drive along a paved highway.

It is well to make good roads and to set apart public parks that are readily accessible. But nature-lovers should insist that some hill-top views and some forest fastnesses be left as Nature made them and kept sufficiently removed from all highways to be undisturbed by automobile horn or the voices of speeding motorists.

A new movement would wed art with industry. Give the WPA a hoe to lean on and it could be a painting by Miller.

This could go down in the book as the year in which we had spring fever twice.

JUNIOR SOROSIS HAS ARRANGED PLEASING AND VARIED PROGRAM

LANGHORNE, Apr. 20.—The Langhorne Junior Sorosis invite all women of Langhorne, Bristol and neighboring towns to its next open meeting to be held in the Langhorne Library on Maple Avenue, at 8:15 on the evening of Tuesday, April 26th.

It will be the first musical program the Junior Sorosis has given since November. Mrs. Ernest Gamble has very graciously offered to play her violin. Miss Madeleine Rumpf will sing, and Chris Rumpf will give several piano solos.

The meeting will be opened with a surprise which the program chairman has arranged. Although the performers in this surprise act live in Langhorne, it is believed that few living in or near Langhorne know of this remarkable troupe. As the program will be opened by this surprise number it is hoped that all who attend will try to be there promptly at 8:15 so as not to interrupt the proceedings.

The meeting will be closed by Mrs. Frank Parker Stockbridge who has consented to amuse the Juniors and their guests by reading entertaining verse, as well as some stories, for the telling of which she is famous among her friends.

deliberately subtle cause for the sake of making a perfectly fitting party gesture. They did this, once, with disastrous results. It is incredible that the performance should be repeated.

UNDER SUCH conditions, if co-operation is to be had, the initiative has got to come from the Republicans, rather than from the anti-New Deal Democrats. The reason is that the latter largely come from a section still so strongly Democratic in feeling that an alliance with Republicans or a change in labels would be politically fatal to the State leaders. It just can't be done. And there are equally insurmountable objections to the dropping of the Republican name. The practical political difficulties, to say nothing of the State laws, make that out of the question.

APPRECIATING all this, anxious not again to be reduced to impotence in a national campaign, and feeling deeply that it will not only be dumb but ignoble and unpatriotic to permit the party labels to prevent voters whose convictions are identical from uniting their forces, a number of Republicans and Democrats, equally opposed on principle to New Deal policies, have discussed recently a form of procedure which they think would be effective. It is, of course, predicated on the belief that the Democratic convention will be dominated by the Roosevelt influence; that the nominee and the platform will be dictated by the President, and that both will be New Dealish in the extreme. This is assumed because in the past most two-term Presidents have been able to name their successors and the effort always is to nominate one who "can be depended upon to carry out my policies."

IF THAT HAPPENS, it is reasoned, the anti-New Deal Democrats simply cannot swallow the dose. They would be less than men if they did not withdraw and nominate an independent Democratic ticket on an anti-New Deal platform. Now that, of course, would be entirely futile if there did not follow complete Republican co-operation. Without that it merely would insure election of the New Deal ticket. The first suggested Republican move is that they postpone their convention, until September if necessary, but certainly delay it not only until after the Democratic convention but until the anti-New Deal Democrats have put their ticket in the field.

THE SECOND Republican move would be to nominate in their convention the independent Democratic ticket and adopt verbatim the independent Democratic platform. This they would follow by nominating in the States the Presidential electors nominated by the independent Democrats. In brief, the anti-New Deal Democrats and the Republicans, without either amalgamation or coalition, would have identical tickets and identical electors in the field. In this way each could preserve its party label and entity without becoming negligible. In this way the embarrassments of coalition could be avoided while its benefits were assured.

CERTAINLY, there are neither legal nor practical political difficulties about this plan and it is being favorably considered in some very interesting and significant quarters. Of course, it is based altogether on the idea that the Democratic convention will be Roosevelt controlled and will present a ticket and platform offensive to the anti-New Deal Democrats. However, there are those who believe that by 1940 the Roosevelt influence will be so diminished that he will no more be able to dominate the convention than he today dominates Congress. In that event, an entirely different set of political scenery would be needed for the play.

ON SCREENS IN BRISTOL

BRISTOL

Characters familiar to life in the New York tenements move through the gripping story of Monogram's new feature, "Boy of the Streets," starring Jackie Cooper and Maureen O'Connor, and scheduled to open on Wednesday at the Bristol Theatre.

There is Chuck Brennan, boy gang leader, enacted by young Cooper, and his father, Fog Horn Brennan who, posing as a big shot in ward politics, turns out to be a very small shot indeed, greatly to the disappointment of his son.

The role of Spike, a negro, is taken by Paul White, and Maureen O'Connor, who came into national fame as the Baby Radia Star of 1937, appears as Nora Galway, girl of the tenements.

Frank Malo, Italian youth who actually was born in a tenement located in the eastern metropolis, falls naturally into the role of gang member, and Don Latorre, another Italian, is Tony Concilla, leader of a gang of boys that is opposed to the Chuck Brennan group.

Of course there is a friendly policeman, and Robert Emmett O'Connor, screenland's most famous officer of the law, has this part. Kathleen Burke has the role of an heiress who owns the tenement in which the Brennan and Galway families have their abode.

William Nigh directed from the original story by Rowland Brown, and screenplay was by Gilson Brown and Scott Darling.

GRAND

Hailed as the most brilliant and delightful picture in her screen career, Lily Pons' new RKO Radio vehicle, "Hitting a New High," will be seen tonight at the Grand Theatre with Jack Oakie co-starred, and a novel story-plot to win new admirers among the film-going public.

Seven songs, ranging from operatic arias through classic "novelty" tunes to sparkling modern numbers, are sung by the shapely diva, who is supported by such favorites as Eric Blore, Edward Everett Horton, John Howard, Eduardo Cannelini and Luis Alberni. Altogether, "Hitting a New High" is rated as the funniest as well as the most melodic of the famous soprano's screen vehicles.

The plot deals with the romance between Miss Pons and Howard, and with the ingenious scheme through which Oakie seeks to have her "discovered" by his publicity-seeking employer, Horton. These two themes are interwoven with the story in a hilarious fashion, and they lead to surprising results.

Miss Pons, a singer with Howard's orchestra in Paris, yearns to be an opera star and quarrels with Howard when she tries to get an audience with Horton, a pompous big-game hunter and opera patron. Oakie, Horton's press agent, works out a clever plan by which Miss Pons is to precede Horton's safari to Africa and there let Horton find her as a "bird-girl," a sort of feminine Tarzan who has grown up from babyhood in the jungle and learned to sing from the birds.

SINGLE BY VAN LENTEN WINS FOR BRISTOL OVER BENSALAM NINE IN THE OPENING GAME OF SEASON

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Apr. 20.—A ninth inning single by Wilbur Van Lenten, big Cardinal third sacker, drove in Hardy Johnson from second to break up a pitcher's duel in the second extra inning and gave Bristol a 5-4 win over Bensalem in the opening tilt of the Lower Bucks County League here yesterday afternoon.

Sunny skies and ideal weather for baseball brought out a large crowd for the opening and they were treated to a nerve-ringing game all the way through. Twenty safe wallop (including six extra base hits), eight passes, 13 strike outs, seven errors, and many spectacular fielding plays were tossed into the fray to make it complete in every respect.

Bill Gallagher, southpaw ace of the Cardinal staff, and Joe Cahill, ace of the Owl corps, were the mainstays for hill duty in the opener. And though both were touched rather freely for hits, they kept them scattered and were especially tight in the pinches. Gallagher was solved for eight hits, but he fanned five and passed four. Cahill, on the other hand, was found for an even dozen safeties and issued a quartet of free tickets to first, but set eight Cards down on strikes. Both fingers were put into and pulled out of tough spots by faulty and sensational fielding.

In the third frame Bensalem had runners on second and third with only one out and Buck Friel batting. Before Friel had a chance to take his full measure of swings at the plate, both runners for the Owls were trapped and run down. A fast double play, Van Lenten to Spencer to Carter also wiped out a threatening Owl rally in the fifth.

Bristol was even more guilty of faulty base running than Bensalem. Pete DeLuca was caught flat off first and run down in the second, and later was the wind-up victim of a double play when he tried to reach third on a hunt. Stanley Dick, running for Gallagher in the eighth, was caught off third with only one out, and "Chart" Tomlinson was tagged out sliding into third on a single by Johnson in the ninth. Others, too, would have been caught, but Bensalem infielders failed to "put the ball on them."

Jack Spencer came up with a couple of fine plays to cheat Jimmy Lieberman and Joe Cahill out of hits. First up in the third, Lieberman hit a sharp grounder toward right, but Spencer, moving over fast, scooped up the seemingly base knock and threw Jim out at first. Joe Cahill was the victim in the seventh when Spencer stuck up his gloved hand to snare a liner by the Owl pitcher that was labeled for two bases.

The other side of the fielding picture shows a pair of errors by Johnson and Yehle in the sixth that led to two unearned runs scored by both Bristol and Bensalem.

The game was a thriller all the way through with both teams playing an even brand of ball, but both teams tossed away several chances to win the game in regulation time, which made the victory all the harder earned but nevertheless it was well earned.

Bill Gallagher, and Hardy Johnson were the hitting stars of the game. Bill collected a single, double and triple in four trips, while Johnson had the same in five times up at the platter. Van Lenten grabbed himself a pair of singles in four attempts and drove in the winning tally. For the Owls, Norman Tettemer and Cruiser Crossley

McCAHAN BEATS DRIVER AND WINS FOR LANGHORNE

LANGHORNE, Apr. 20.—Hooking up in one of the finest hurling duels seen here in recent years, the veteran Bill McCahan, Langhorne's star right hand pitcher, bested Albert Driver of Newtown to top the visiting Indians in the opening fray of the Lower Bucks County League, 2-1, here yesterday afternoon.

Only nine hits were allowed by the two fingers who tossed them in there with mid-season form. McCahan was touched for five of the nine blows and Driver gave up the other four with both going the full route. The Redskin ace turned back eight on strikes while the Indian star set down seven via the same manner, but whereas McCahan did not issue a single base on balls, Driver dished out a trio of free tickets to the initial sack. Both winners pitched shut-out ball over the final four innings of the tilt.

Celebrate Hitler's Birthday

Berlin, April 20.—With impressive displays of military prowess from the Rhine to the Danube, 75,000,000 subjects of the new "great Germany" today celebrated the 49th birthday of Chancellor Adolph Hitler.

As the birthday ceremonies reached their climax with a parade of 9500 picked troops, Hitler was presented to the people for the first time as a "military genius" personally responsible for the power of the army.

Death—the great mystery. Death—the end of life. Why do people fear it so? Is it such a great terror? Oser, the great physician, said "No."

He observed many in death. Some suffered pain and distress. A few showed mental concern. Only two exhibited terror. One betrayed bitter remorse. The great majority gave no sign. It was a sleep and a forgetting.
